Native Studies Program

The middle part of this decade may well see the flowering of a native studies program at The University of Alberta. Such optimism springs from the fact that funds to investigate possible structures for such a program and to develop a process for selecting and introducing the optimum structure are now in hand.

Emile Bergevin, Assistant Vice-President of Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. (Ottawa) presented a 1980 Metropolitan Life Educational Award—a $10,000 grant—to President Horowitz on 9 June.

The grant will be put to use this year and next. Basic documentation on various existing native studies programs will be gathered and two faculty members will visit selected programs in the other Western Provinces as well as in Ontario, Quebec, the Maritimes and the United States. A workshop and information exchange will take place at the University this fall and a formal proposal on a native studies program will be developed for presentation to committees.

According to the University's submission to Metropolitan Life, the estimate was that the program would be established in September 1981 with the possibility that some students could be admitted. Formal admission of students is scheduled for September 1982.

The submission was made by Vice-President (Academic) Baldwin on behalf of the Native Studies Committee of General Faculties Council, a committee which has representation from the native community at large, the native students enrolled at the University, and virtually all of the academic and professional faculties which currently have some interest in the area.

newly elected chairman of the committee, replacing Marilyn Assheton-Smith, Educational Foundations.

The University of Alberta is one of nine North American institutions, out of some two hundred participants, to receive Metropolitan Life Educational Awards.

The University will likely make application to Alberta Advanced Education and Manpower for a matching grant to augment the research into a native studies program. □

Literary Acquisition

Alberta author Kerry Wood has had few problems with the muse. In more than fifty years of full-time writing, Mr. Wood has produced nineteen books and more than 6,000 short stories (and caused nineteen typewriters to cry out for relief). Quality is a hallmark of his output, as witness two Governor General's Awards for Junior Fiction, The Map-Maker (1955) and The Great Chief (1957).

The aforementioned works plus thousands of weekly newspaper columns and copious articles on Alberta's natural history and heritage were graciously donated to the University of Alberta by Mr. Wood on 17 June.

"I thought it was enough to send my papers by mail with a covering letter saying 'Here' but Mr. Parker (University Archivist Jim Parker) convinced me otherwise," Mr. Wood said at a brief ceremony in Lister Hall. "Many years of joyous work are now at the University." Chancellor Forest, who welcomed Mr. Wood and his wife, accepted the manuscripts and papers, saying they would be of tremendous assistance to future researchers. Mrs. Forest referred to the honorary Doctor of Laws degree which the University conferred on Mr. Wood in 1969, noting that he had turned down a number of similar honors from other universities.

Speaking on behalf of the Alberta 75th Anniversary Commission, Jerry Royer of Alberta Culture described Mr. Wood as a pioneer naturalist and writer who has given a great deal to Alberta, including the establishment of various wildlife sanctuaries.

Mr. Wood, who resides in Red

Deer, signed over his works to the University by way of paying homage to Alberta's 75th anniversary. Now 73 years old, he has seen the inclusion of his writings in more than fifty literary anthologies and numerous Canadian and American school readers. In 1969, it was estimated that 500,000 Canadian children read his stories each year. Quite likely some of the youthful readers were inspired to do as Mr. Wood did at the age of seven, that is, astound family members by boldly announcing: "I'm going to be a writer." □

Secretary General of the Alexander von Humboldt Foundation to Visit Campus

Dr. Heinrich Pfeiffer, the Secretary General of the Alexander von Humboldt Foundation, is to visit this University on 2 July, after attending the second Regional Meeting for former AvH Research Fellows in Ottawa, 27 to 29 June. While in Edmonton, Dr. Pfeiffer will consult with former Humboldt Fellows, of which there are fourteen on the faculty of the University and a further two currently undertaking advanced work in the Federal Republic of Germany.

The Alexander von Humboldt Foundation is a public foundation re-established in Bonn in 1953 and represented by the Federal Republic of Germany's Minister for Foreign Affairs. Its aim is to promote international cooperation in a wide range of scholarly disciplines. Highly qualified scholars of any nationality (except German), if they hold the equivalent of a German doctoral degree and have given evidence of successful teaching and published research, may apply to the AvH for research fellowships. On gaining such a fellowship, the young scholar, who must be no older than forty years of age, works in Germany and collaborates with peers in the furtherance of his or her research. In applying for a fellowship, the scholar must submit a detailed research plan which has been arranged in consultation with a German host institute.

The AvH Foundation offers 480 scholarships a year. The terms of these fellowships include a generous stipend, a family allowance, travel expenses, and language courses at Goethe Institutes.

Since the re-establishment of the AvH Foundation in 1953, some 95 Canadian scholars—in the Humanities and Natural and Engineering Sciences—have gained the prestigious fellowship, which is funded in large part by the Federal Republic's Foreign Office. After tenure of the fellowship, the AvH Foundation continues to assist scholars by the provision of scholarly literature and, in some cases, appropriate scientific equipment.

The current Secretary General, Dr. Pfeiffer, is a well-known scholar who has led a varied career and who has a particular interest in comparative studies of science and research. After visiting The University of Alberta he intends to take two weeks' vacation in the Rockies.

For more information about the Alexander von Humboldt Foundation and its research fellowships, one should write to the Alexander von Humboldt-Stiftung, Bad Godesberg, Jean-Paul-Strasse 12, D 5300 Bonn 2, Federal Republic of Germany, or to the University's Faculty of Graduate Studies and Research. □

Dean of Engineering Chairs Committee for International Congress

Dr. P.F. Adams, Dean of Engineering, is the chairman of a national committee of structural engineers that will provide organizational support for an International Structural Engineering Congress to be held in Vancouver in 1984.

The International Association for Bridge and Structural Engineering (IABSE) is one of the oldest and most prestigious professional societies extant. The International Congress brings together structural engineers from industry, government and educational institutions to discuss problems in the planning, design and construction of steel, concrete, timber and composite structures.

Approximately 1,000 representatives are expected to attend the Congress which is expected to be the most significant North American structural engineering event since 1968, when the Eighth Congress of the IABSE was held in New York. □

R. U. Lemieux Appointed University Professor

The signal honor of receiving a University Professorship has been accorded R.U. Lemieux, Professor of Chemistry. The announcement was made by H.E. Gunning, Past President of The University of Alberta, in conjunction with the opening of the 16 and 17 June "International Symposium on Carbohydrate Chemistry and Antibiotics", an event held in honor of Dr. Lemieux's sixtieth birthday.

The appointment of Dr. Lemieux to the august rank was made by President Horowitz following a recommendation by Deans' Council. As noted in the General Faculties Council Policy Manual, the title of University Professor is no longer restricted to those whose work is of an interdisciplinary nature; the award is based on achievement alone. The title is an honorary one without fiscal or other implications.

The criteria for nomination to University Professorship are teaching, scholarly achievements, community activity on behalf of the University, and other forms of outstanding service to the University.

Max Wyman, the fourth individual to be appointed University Professor and, by coincidence, the author of the original terms of reference for this category of appointment in 1967-68, described a University Professorship as "really a kind of freedom which enables a senior person with broad interests and experience in several different disciplines to wander around the University and serve wherever he feels he can be useful. It's a very special freedom and it has got to be earned."

The other University Professors are James Barrington and the late Ludwig von Bertalanffy, L.C. Green, Henry Kreisel, George Walker, and Fenton MacHardy.

Dr. Lemieux, who has been on campus since 1961, is the founder of three companies including ChemBioMed, a University of Alberta-owned and operated firm which is currently developing markets for blood banking reagents.

Dr. Lemieux's synthetic chemistry work in the field of antibiotics has led to the commercialization of a number of life-saving drugs.

He is a Fellow of the Royal Society of Canada and was invested as an Officer of the Order of Canada in 1968.

His is the first appointment to University Professorship since Dr. MacHardy's in 1976. □
